

First, I don't think some Washington company has a right sticking their nose into our business. All they care about is their CEO's pocket book. I have a right not to be harassed at home by these ruthless companies. If this law fails then I have to switch solely to a cell phone or disconnect my phone altogether. Either way it is at my inconvenience to have to protect my right to privacy. Please don't let this law get changed, otherwise it just proves the fact that the citizen doesn't matter, and those with money can buy anything.
